Furst Undergraduate Award Conferred

University of San Francisco undergraduate Rachel Bahr, a junior majoring in chemistry, received the second annual Arthur Furst Undergraduate Scholarship October 15, 1996 at a campus luncheon in her honor. GNLD Scientific Advisory Board members Dr. Arthur Furst and John Miller presented the award, which includes financial support to defray the student's tuition costs and assist the school's chemistry department, an honorary plaque, and a medallion.

GNLD endows the award in honor of Dr. Arthur Furst, distinguished university professor emeritus at the University of San Francisco and Senior Member of GNLD's SAB. The scholarship is awarded annually to an undergraduate science major at the University of San Francisco who demonstrates outstanding academic ability and a strong desire to pursue research.
